

Process matters to me. By mark making, layering, obscuring, removing and revealing, I create surfaces exploring figure and ground, fluidity, pattern, transparency and opacity.

I take color, composition, light and shadow from the world around me. Whatever image forms the starting point, creating an aesthetically engaging non-representational painting is my goal.